Adesso insurance solutions has a new solution for settling pension and unemployment insurance contributions from nursing care

- in|sure Health Securaid for private health insurers and benefit agencies
- A software alternative to the solution that is currently available on the market will become available as early as this year

Dortmund, March 8, 2023 - adesso insurance solutions will offer private health insurance companies in|sure Health Securaid, a state-of-the-art software for settling pension and unemployment insurance contributions from nursing care. It also determines payments from nursing care leave and nursing care support allowance. Before the end of the year, this will provide private health insurers with an alternative to the solution that is currently available on the market. The Dortmund-based experts for insurance software are thus expanding their product portfolio within the area of long-term care insurance. in|sure Health Securaid will be available as a stand-alone solution, yet will also be integrated into the in|sure Ecosphere application landscape. The orientation to the interfaces to the most common solution is given.

Relevance for private health insurers due to increasing private care

Due to demographic developments, the proportion of private caregivers is increasing. Accordingly, private health insurers are being called upon to take a closer look at long-term care insurance and to establish solutions that enable the efficient calculation of pension entitlements and long-term care benefits for private caregivers.

"German private insurers make up a large portion of our customers, and we have seen clear signals that the need for an alternative software is great and urgent," says Oliver von Ameln, managing director at adesso insurance solutions. "With in|sure Health Securaid, we are expanding our product portfolio for existing customers and committing ourselves to further penetrating the private health insurance market."
